Does paper quality really matter?

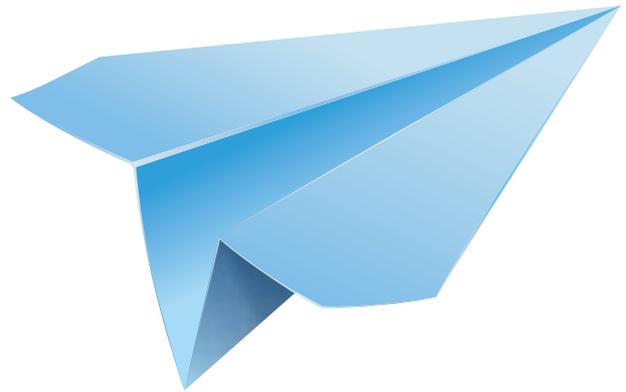

In our opinion it does. To maintain your brand, safeguard against day-to-day office inefficiencies and generally keep all business communications as sharp as they can be, we would always recommend that you use a high quality, premium paper.

Sometimes potential customers can be put off by the smallest of things that may go unnoticed - unfriendly staff, tired furniture and the type, colour and quality of paper that you use. We can help you to address this.
